About Webinar

While campaigning for the Assembly Elections (May 2021) the YSR Congress Party (YSRCP) has promised to implement Navaratnaalu if voted to power in Andhra Pradesh. The electorate of the State has given a massive verdict favoring the party. Two dimensions emerge from such a verdict, viz., whether the Government has taken appropriate steps to fulfill party's promises, and whether people are satisfied with the implementation of the promises. In this context, it becomes very crucial to the Government to periodically verify the extent of implementation promises made and the quality of implementation of those promises.

The promises cannot be implemented without appropriate guidelines. Naturally, the promises need to be converted into appropriate programmes by the Government. The role of Government does not end with the mere implementation of the programs. The Government also cannot ignore the fact that it is the custodian of resources used in the implementation of the programmes. This means, the State must regularly assess the process of implementation of programmes made and effective use of resources delivered to the people. This is more so because, no State can have the luxury of extravaganza use of its limited resources.

More important, any programmes implemented must not end with mere planning and execution. No doubt, the programmes implemented naturally begin with planning and provision of inputs to the targeted sections of the people. But implementation will be considered effective only when such 'inputs' result in appropriate 'outputs', 'outcomes' and finally leading to 'impact'. Next logical question would be whether the achieved impact is less than the expected, expected and achieved impacts are same, and the achieved impact has surpassed the expected impact. All these need to be studied at frequent intervals. Findings from such studies help in the effective implementation of the programmes.

It is in this context a Two days National webinar on the implementation of Navaratnaalu has been planned by the Centre for Study of Social Exclusion and Inclusive Policy, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Anantapuramu, Andhra Pradesh on May 18th & 19th, 2022.
